treatment of the public must be enforced. It might be wise when it is found that a secret lower rate or rebate has been granted to any shipper lint such rate be made the open rate for say one year, as though the rate were part of the published classification.

"Unjust discriminations between localities and kinds of traffic ought to be susceptible to correction, through the application of the police powers of the government, the same as unjust discriminations between individuals. There is no valid reason for asserting that one kind of discrimination can be corrected by punitive legislation, and that another kind can only be reached by the socialistic method of fixing rates."

"As to the tariff and reciprocity, Mr. Parry said:
"To my mind there are some features in the present tariff situation that opens the serious question, the wisdom of the 'stand pat' policy. The foreign demand for our agricultural products appears to be decilining, and the exportation of manufactured commodities is not nearly so great as it should be. How in the face of unfavorable foreign traffics we can materially develop the market should it of the face of unfavorable foreign traffics we can materially develop the market should in a difficult to see, unless through the adoption of the more liberal tariff policy on our own part we secure compensating concessions in the tariff, schedule of those countries whose mirkets we seek.
"Reciprocity would be a wiser course than tariff revision. I do not think the situation calls for radical treatment, but rather for the adoption of a conservative policy looking more to the opening up than to the bottling up of commerce."

The report of Secretary Marshall Cushing reviewed at length the work of heads. Reference was made to the feat of "bad legislation" in Cong heads. Reference was made to the defeat of "bad legislation" in Congress, particularly of the anti-injunction and eight-hour bills. The matter of foreign collections was reported as having showed remarkable results, less than three per cent. of the claims having been returned as uncollectible.

Ludwig Nissen, of New York, then addressed the association. His address was largely devoted to a discussion of the un-Americanism of government ownership of public utilities. He said in part:

"The gross injustice of the public service corporations is usquestionably the cause for the new general demand of the unthinking public for a system of municipal or State ownership of all public utilities. If these principles should ever be put into general practice in this county the result would be the destruction of our liberty and our progress. We would go from wealth to poverty, from progress to letharsy and from liberty to slavery, because we should live in a state of socialism, which aims at equality with the lowest instead of teaching to aspire the highest.

"As a remedy for these conditions, I would offer the following hints for your careful consideration:

would offer the following hints for your careful consideration:

"First. All public service corporations should be under strict surveillance of the authority) that creates them.

"Second. Whenever a charter or franchise is granted to a public service corporation it should be granted only on condition that service rendered by such corporation shall be adequate to the public needs. Such charter or franchises should not be allowed to be given away, sold, leased or merged with that of any other corporation, except under terms carefully specified by law."

D. A. Tompkins, of Charlotte, N. C., followed. His subject was "Cotton; Its Marketing and Equalizing Supply and Price."

Afternoon Session.

Afternoon Session.

The afternoon session was devoted to an address by Daniel Davenport, of Bridgeport, Conn., on the subject of "The Necessity of Organization, National and Local." Pollowing his address came the announcement of Committees on Resolutions, Nominations, Rules and Order and Credentials. The presentation and discussion of the report of the Committee on Interstate Commerce closed the business of the day. An elaborate reception was tendered the visitors at the Capital City Club this evening.

The features of to-morrow's programme will be an address by Samuel Spencer, president of the Southern Railway; the discussion of Canadian reciprocity by Eugene Foss, of Massachusetts, and an old-fashioned Georgia barbeoue. The choice of the next place of meeting seems to be between San Francisco and New York. It is said that an effort will be made to carry the 1900 convention to the latter city, and make it the permanent meeting place of the association.
